

Science and Scripture – Reconciling Faith with Discovery

Throughout history, science and the church have often been at odds. While the Bible itself affirms truth in both creation and revelation, human interpretation has sometimes led the church to resist genuine discoveries. Misinterpretations of Scripture, rather than Scripture itself, created conflict.

By reviewing examples such as the shape of the earth, the motion of the planets, and the age of the universe, we see how human error distorted biblical teaching, while God’s Word remains true.
